2) Moorcroft Ceramic

This item is a miniature, it's about 2 inches high. This particular item is ""A TRIAL" that is, before they go into general production, they will try out a few variations on the same theme, and either at the end scrap the idea completely, or (and this is the most usual), chose what is considered to be the best of the bunch.

This particular item shows crocuses, It has the price tag underneath £130, and underneath that (it's almost off completely) the date mark (a butterfly, listed as being 2017) plus the Moorcroft mark, also the fact that it is a trial item, & other marks. These on a miniature tend to be somewhat squashed as the base is barely half an inch across..
